SHOT AT THE CZAR.

Alleged Attempt to Kill the Ruler of Russia.

Two Members of the Chamber of Deputies Fight a Duel.

The Affair a Bloodless One—Excitement Over the Election at Iccles—The Bulling Dynasty of Serbia—Revolving French Aggression—The Trial at Tipperary—Dillon and O'Brien Lined in Paris—Outlets for British Industries—Argentine Affairs—Belgium and American Cattle—The Prince of Wales in Vienna—Foreign News.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The excitement has arisen from St. Petersburg stating that as the train on which the Czar was traveling on his return to St. Petersburg from his hunting trip in Poland was passing Grodno a shot was fired at the train from the railway station there.

The Tipperary Trial.

TIPPERARY, Oct. 21.—When the Court which is hearing the conspiracy cases against Dillon and O'Brien and others convened this morning, a witness for the Crown, a man named Quinlan, who is a tenant on the Smith-Barry estate, was recalled by the prosecution. Quinlan on Friday last, among other things, testified that after paying his rent in December, 1889, four shots had been fired in his house. To-day the witness said that since yesterday he had been informed that those dealing in the article would permit it. The witness said that Mr. V. B. Dillon of counsel for the defense expressed a wish that the case was being conducted before a superior court, for there he would bring a charge of contempt against Mr. Balfour. Mr. Dillon then, on behalf of his absent client, Mr. Wm. O'Brien, asked that a summons be issued to compel the attendance in court of Mr. Balfour, there to state on oath what had been said by him in his Newcastle speech. Mr. Dillon eloquently urged that the Chief Secretary for Ireland should not be protected by the Court in his unsupported assaults upon political enemies. During the progress of his argument in support of the request for the issuance of a summons for Mr. Balfour, Mr. Dillon's remarks were listened to with not altogether suppressed excitement. The Bench refused to grant the request of counsel for the defense, saying that it could not be the medium for accomplishing anything illegal or improper.

COMMITTED TO JAIL.
Mr. DAVID SHEEHY, one of the defendants, took part in the discussion and made remarks which were construed by the Magistrate as contempt of court. He was accordingly committed to jail for one week.

Dillon and O'Brien.
PARIS, Oct. 21.—Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien are being lionized, or rather would be if they would permit it. They have countless attentions pressed upon them, but persistently refuse all public invitations and remain wholly among their private circle of friends.

IN THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES.
Mr. Wm. O'Brien attended the opening session of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday and was a close observer of the proceedings of the popular branch of the French Parliamentary body. To-day he was interviewed regarding the impressions made upon him by the methods of the Chamber. He said he was surprised to see how patient the Chamber was, but thought that much time was lost in discussions that were of little importance. In the House of Commons, he said, the discussions were never so prolonged and the House was quickly deserted by the members when interpellations as tedious as those he had heard in the Chamber were submitted.

An Exciting Election.
LONDON, Oct. 21.—Excitement increases in Iccles as Wednesday, the day of election, approaches. While the Liberals have good reason to hope for success, they are not over sanguine, as it would be a great victory to elect a member of the Liberal Unionist majority to the constituency, hereafter regarded as securely Conservative. Mr. Edgerton, the Tory-Unionist candidate, has declined to make any promises or pledges on either the temperance or the labor issue, but he is personally popular, his family being largely interested in the mines at Walkden. They are looked to with esteem and affection as employers of the better class, having granted to their people many privileges not enjoyed by miners elsewhere. Nevertheless, the miners have voted to support the Liberal nominee, Mr. Roby, who has the hearty endorsement of Mr. Gladstone and has fought the battle largely on the issue of Irish home rule or English merrile. To-day both parties are holding excited meetings. Primrose League ladies are darting around in carriages to visit the electors, and no effort is being spared to win the victory to-morrow.

German Socialists' Organ.
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The Tribune this morning says: "Cable dispatches have already reported that the Socialist party in Germany had resolved to have hereafter, a kind of official organ published in Germany. That paper appeared on Oct. 4 at Berlin under the name of Neue Zeit, or New Times. This publication is one of the results of the expiration of the anti-Socialist law. The organ of the party heretofore was the Sozial Demokrat, published first in Zurich and later in London. The policy of this latter paper was moderate, and it is likely that the new Socialist organ will maintain a similar line of conduct. Its first number contains a long leading article summing up the history of the party during the last twelve years. The paper strongly advises its friends to give special attention to propaganda among the rural populations, while not neglecting to spread the doctrine among the laboring classes in the cities. The international character of the paper is seen in its first number, in the fact that the main editorials are signed by Schippen, the leader of the Young German Socialists, and by LaFargue, one of the chiefs of the French Socialists."

A Bloodless Duel.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The duel between M. Paul Deroulede and M. Reinach, growing out of the debate in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, relative to the action of the Government against the Bonapartists, is the outcome of which M. Deroulede assaulted M. Reinach by describing him as "that lackey of all Administrations," took place at an early hour this morning. The weapons used were pistols. Twenty-five paces were marked off by the seconds and the principals then took their positions. At the word M. Reinach fired, but his shot flew wide of its mark. M. Deroulede did not fire. M. Reinach's seconds then proposed that the duel be continued, but M. Deroulede declined to accede to the proposal.

Narcisse Laroque's Crimes.

CUMBERLAND, Ontario, Oct. 21.—The Grand Jury in the case of the two McGonigle girls, who were criminally assaulted and strangled near here a few days ago, returned a verdict to the effect that the girls came to their death by strangulation and that the jury strongly suspects the prisoner, Narcisse Laroque, of committing the crime. Two 12-year-old girls testified yesterday that Laroque acted indecently toward them a short time ago and threatened to choke them to death if they made an outcry. Laroque has been committed for trial.

Merley's Speech at Newcastle.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—John Merley made a vigorous attack upon Mr. Balfour in his address to his constituents at Newcastle Monday night, in the course of which he stated that the disturbance compensation bill of 1880, the arrears bill of 1882 and the tramways bill of 1882 were first suggested by Farnellites and that the land bill of 1887 was drafted upon suggestions made by Mr. Farnell in 1886. Mr. Merley repeated his assertion that the police had used excessive force in Tipperary.

The Prince of Wales.

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—Before meeting the Emperor of Austria, the Prince of Wales, following the example of the Emperor William, visited the vault where the remains of the Prince Rudolph repose and placed a wreath on the tomb. The Emperor was very much touched by this tribute to his dead son, and said: "The Prince is making himself very popular in Vienna. Though indisputably performing social duties, he has found time to visit nearly all charitable institutions and make liberal contributions to their funds."

The Teutonic Ahead.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The White Star Line steamer Teutonic, Capt. Irving, which cleared the bar at New York at 7:24 a. m., Oct. 15, bound for Liverpool, was signaled off Broadway at 9:27 a. m. The Inman Line steamer City of New York, Capt. Watkins, which sailed from New York for Liverpool on the same day as the Teutonic, and crossed the bar four minutes ahead of her, was signaled off the same point at 11:30 a. m. to-day.

The Bulling Dynasty of Serbia.

BERGRADE, Oct. 21.—It has been privately intimated to the Government by the Czar that he is not desirous of a change in the ruling dynasty of Serbia. This is interpreted as an intimation to the followers of Prince Nicholas of Montenegro and Prince Karageorgevitch that intrigues in behalf of either will not be tolerated by the Russian Government.

The Vienna Tram-Car Strikers.

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—The prompt action of the government in calling out troops to suppress any violence on the part of the Vienna tram-car strikers and protect free labor has had the effect of preserving the peace of the city. Many of the strikers have expressed a desire to return to work.

Outlets for British Industries.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Attorney General Webster, speaking at Louth, Ireland, said it was the duty of the government, in view of the McKinley tariff, to find other outlets for British industries. The linen factories of Belfast are already beginning to slacken up, owing to the lessened American demand for their product.

Captured by Germans.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—It is learned from Berlin that the eldest daughter of the American Minister, Hon. Wm. Walter Phelps, is betrothed to Lieut. Lettner, one of the most popular young officers of the army. The Minister's youngest daughter's engagement to Baron Witzleben is also announced.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

A FIRE AT CITY COUNSELLOR BELL'S RESIDENCE THIS MORNING

The Family Almost Smothered by Smoke, Barely Got Out With Their Lives—A Custom of Keeping Doors Open in the House at Night Saved Several Lives—Miss Florence Bell's Experience.

City Councillor Leverett Bell's residence, 230 Westmaster place, was partly destroyed by fire about 5 o'clock this morning and the family of five with two servants had very narrow escapes from being smothered by smoke or burned to death. They had barely time to gather a few pieces of wearing apparel and run for their lives. Mr. Bell's residence is on the southwest corner of Cabanne avenue and Westmaster place, and contains eleven rooms. It is heated by a furnace and a fire was started in the furnace for the first time yesterday by the hired man. He had done some repairs to the furnace and it was supposed to be in perfect order. A fire was made for the night and at 12 o'clock when Mr. Bell returned home he did not notice anything wrong. Mr. and Mrs. Bell occupied rooms on the second floor as also did their two daughters. Another daughter occupied a room on the third floor front, while the two servants were in the back at the head of the back stairs. About 5 o'clock the servants were awakened by a stifling smoke, and at the same time Miss Florence Bell also woke up. She called her mother several times but received no answer, and hearing a noise ran to her mother's room and woke up the family.

A CLOSER CALL.

Hastily gathering a few articles of clothes the family rushed out in the street, and at the same moment the fire broke through the floor of the kitchen. The nearest alarm box was on Grand and Olive street and Mr. Bell sent a messenger to call the fire department. The engines arrived in a short time considering the number of alarms answered last night, but it was some time before water could be had. The flames after getting through the floor leaped up to the roof, and before they were subdued had burned out the kitchen, two rooms on the second floor and all of the rooms on the third floor. The peculiar shape of the house and intricate passages and hallways puzzled the firemen and they had some difficulty in locating the fire. Once when they declared the fire out the flames broke out of the open space from a point thought to be untouched by the flames. The fire caught the back stairs leading to the servants' quarters just as they rushed out of the house and in this manner.

Mrs. Hamilton Daughaday, living across the street from the Bell residence, was aroused by the flames outside and throwing open her door looked at the fire in the street. The general officer was accepted and Mrs. Bell and her daughters will remain there until they secure quarters elsewhere to await the repairs on their own home to be finished.

Mrs. Bell speaking at the fire this morning said she was very thankful over the fortunate and almost miraculous escape of her family. "We leave our doors open in the house at night as we do in the day and can hear any sound down stairs. Had the doors been closed the smoke would not have got into the house and we would very probably never have known the house was on fire until it was too late to escape. I was awakened by my daughter calling me, but as she sometimes talks in her sleep I paid no attention to her until she said some one was in the house and that she smelled smoke. I detected the odor then and told the children to put on their clothes and get out. We walked down stairs and through the smoke, which was very thick on the first floor, and got into the street as the flames came through the roof."

ATTRIBUTED TO A SUGAR.

Miss Florence Bell, to whom is due the credit of saving the family, said: "I was awakened by a noise, and on listening I heard a rumbling and crawling down stairs. I thought some one was in the house, and hearing the servants call, I arose and woke up my mother."

The Bell mansion was built five years ago at a cost of $15,000 and was one of the prettiest houses in that section of the city. Mr. Bell has been adding to it each year, an oakwood floor in the dining-room having been put in only yesterday. At the time of the fire the house and contents were valued at $15,000. The property is fully insured with Harry Carroll's agency. Mr. Bell estimates that the loss will be fully $5,000, and as soon as advised he will begin repairing the house at once.

UGO FRASCHETTI.

The Once Famous Baritone Driven Insane by Unrequited Love.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Ugo Frascchetti, whose wonderful baritone voice has filled every great opera-house in Europe, was taken, paralyzed, emaciated and insane, to a private asylum in Buenos Ayres a short time ago. The cause of his fall was his love for a chorus girl whom he met while singing in Milan last October. The opera was Verdi's "Rigoletto." He was the court fool and she merely an Italian young woman whose part consisted mostly in showing her beautiful face. Frascchetti saw her face and loved her at once. He returned repeatedly to Milan to see her, confessed his love and was accepted as her fiancé. He was a famous star and she the most ordinary kind of a chorus girl. Yet their relations remained pure. Frascchetti planned to marry her in January and had already prepared a home for her. On last Christmas day he appeared unexpectedly in Milan to call on her. She was not at home. He awaited her return there for a week, cutting all his professional engagements. He neither ate nor slept the last three days before New Year. Finally he learned that on the day of his arrival she had left Milan with a rich Brazilian for America. When Frascchetti heard the news he fell unconscious to the pavement. He was restored, only to be stricken with brain fever. He lay all winter in a hospital, apparently without any necessary energy to rally. His mind remained somewhat affected and in the early spring he was sent to an asylum for treatment. About the middle of May he seemed to be cured and was released. The power of his voice had been carried away by his illness. His nervous system was shattered. His ambition was killed. He spoke of few and talked to none. He wandered aimlessly about in Milan for a week or so, and then discovered as a steamship agency that the Brazilian and his mistress had gone to Buenos Ayres. He secured a pass and sailed for the Argentine Republic. He searched Argentina's capital some time in vain for his false love. He spent all his money and was on the verge of suicide when he arrived into the San Martin Theater one evening. In a box he saw the chorus girl of the "Rigoletto" magnificently attired and beside her the Brazilian. The manager told him who she was there every evening. He was sent to the stage director, however, resulted in the transfer of Frascchetti to the back row, although it was possible he could not sing. The chorus girl of "Rigoletto" broke down. In the midst of the chorus he sprang to the front of the stage, drew a revolver and killed the girl's name twice at her and her lover. Neither bullet hit its mark. Frascchetti was thrown to the floor, dazed, handcuffed and imprisoned. The next morning he was again full of fever. When the fever abated he found that his mind was gone and he was taken to an asylum for incurables.

The fire broke out just before the closing of the day at the Broadway store of the Frank Bros. and was narrowly prevented from becoming a disaster.

On account of the start the fire had made when the department arrived, the rapidity with which the flames spread and the danger to surrounding property, Chief Lindsay turned on a fourth or general alarm, after Assistant Firemen had given the second and third together, and with one single exception this was the first time a general alarm has ever been sounded in St. Louis. The exception was for the fire on Broadway at the store of the Frank Bros. and was narrowly prevented from becoming a disaster.

Mr. August Frank, the head of the firm of Frank Bros., had not yet fully decided whether he should do. He was inclined to try to open up again right here. A UNIFORM SYSTEM
To Be Adopted in Post-Office Bookkeeping —Inspection Here.

James Warrington and J. Yelden, two accountants, members of a commission appointed by Postmaster General Warrington to devise a set of books to suit all Post-offices, left St. Louis last night after a stay of three days. They are making themselves familiar with the various systems of book-keeping in the various offices throughout the country and with the service preliminary to the adoption of a uniform set of books. At the present time there is no uniformity, the clerks of the various large offices and the postmaster of the smaller ones keeping their books according to their own ideas. It is the object of the commission to make an investigation in the office before he can be able to make a report.

FOR BREACH OF PROMISE.

AN INTERESTING TRIAL IN THE CIRCUIT COURT TO-DAY.

Charles Wassman's Housekeeper Wants $5,000 From Him for Breach of Promise of Marriage—One of the Jamieson Cases Ended. The Aachenbroedel Case.

Mrs. Maggie Roth, formerly housekeeper for Charles Wassman, a barber, formerly of Belleville, Ill., now of St. Louis, brought an action against him in the St. Louis Circuit Court for $5,000 damages for breach of promise of marriage. She alleged that on Feb. 1, 1889, in Belleville, she promised to marry him, but on April 29, 1890, he married another woman though she was ready and willing to marry him. Wassman answered that on May 1, 1890, in consideration of certain personal property and a note for $200, which is not yet due, she agreed to release all her real or pretended claims against him.

The case was on trial in Division No. 2 before Judge Fisher and a jury this morning. The plaintiff is about 35 years of age, a defendant about the same age. The latter is the father of twelve children, eleven born in wedlock and one to the plaintiff. The following letter was introduced in evidence while the plaintiff was on the stand:

To Maggie: I herewith certify that I got married lawfully to Mrs. W. on Tuesday, the 29th of April, 1890. I hope that you have seen enough to settle the matter and that you are happy. I am sorry that I have sold my property and that I have no more to give you. I am sorry that I have no more to give you. I am sorry that I have no more to give you.
